No other wine tasted among the new releases in Montalcino achieves this unique level of aromatic finesse and distinction. The bouquet is almost purely floral in character with a strong emphasis on pressed rose petal, dried violets and potpourri. The fruit tones are less emphatic and include bright cherry and red currant. In the mouth, the wine's compresse texture is accented by fennel seed and licorice. The 2009 vintage had more power and heat, but this version shows elegant restraint 93 Points R.
